

Delta Air Lines is the world's largest airline. Over the last three years, Delta and Northwest combined have added over 100 new international routes. Delta is the only major US airline flying non-stop from US to Africa and from July 2009 will be the only US carrier to serve 6 continents with the launch of flights from Los Angeles to Sydney Australia.

In Europe, Delta's already strong network will be complemented further by Northwest's joint venture with KLM and its Amsterdam hub. Together with Delta's joint venture with Air France, this will create the strongest transatlantic network in the world.

Delta flies non-stop from the UK to the US with more than 230 convenient connections in the US and beyond.

London Heathrow to Atlanta
London Heathrow to New York-JFK
London Gatwick to Atlanta
London Gatwick to Cincinnati
Manchester to Atlanta
Manchester to New York-JFK
Edinburgh to New York-JFK

New this spring, Delta are rolling out flatbeds in its Boeing 767-400 aircrafts, beginning with flights to and from London Heathrow.

Delta is serving 379 destinations in 66 countries carrying over 170 passengers every year.

Running a small to medium size business? Why not benefit from Delta Skybonus program.

It's easy-Enroll. Buy a Ticket. Fly. Earn Points. Enjoy Rewards.

SkyBonus was designed by Delta Air Lines to provide growing to well-established companies the ability to earn points toward flexible business rewards. As a member of the SkyBonus program, every qualifying Delta and Delta Connection® flight takes your company closer to earning points redeemable for over 20 rewards, including flights, upgrades, Crown Room Club® memberships, Silver Medallion® status, and In-flight Courtesy Coupons.

For more details and to enroll, visit delta-skybonus.com

The logo for Delta SkyBonus. It features the Delta logo (a red triangle with a white stylized 'D' inside) to the left of the word "DELTA" in blue, uppercase letters. Below "DELTA" is the word "SKYBONUS" in a larger, blue, uppercase font. A registered trademark symbol (®) is located to the right of "SKYBONUS".