

SWISS: The world's only airline with 3-class configuration on all long-haul flights

The gradual replacement of SWISS's current Airbus A330-200s with new and more fuel-efficient A330-300s - from this spring onwards - will be a major investment. Once all the new A330-300s are in service, SWISS will be the only one in the world to offer a First Class cabin on all its long-haul aircraft.

New SWISS First Class Cabin and Seat

The new SWISS First Seat offers exclusive design, top inflight comfort and can be individually adjusted to specific needs. At the touch of a button, the seat can recline into a two-meter-long lie-flat bed and comes complete with a duvet and pillow. An innovative pneumatic air cushion allows our guests to adjust the firmness of their seat. The innovative guest seat enables the customer to dine with a companion or work with a business colleague. Further extras include a 23-inch (currently the world's biggest) inflight entertainment screen, generous work surfaces and storage facilities.

New SWISS Business Class Seat

From spring 2009, SWISS Business passengers on long-haul routes will enjoy a unique new seating concept. The new SWISS Business seat can fully recline to a lie-flat position offering guests a "bed above the clouds" that is two meters long. The new angled seating configuration, offers our passengers better access to their seat, the aisle and restroom. The seat features the world's first air cushion with an integrated massage function and allows to individually adjust the firmness of the seat. Additionally, it offers a bigger 16:9-format in-flight entertainment screen.

SWISS voted favourite short-haul leisure airline in 11th Condé Nast Traveller Readers' Awards

Swiss International Air Lines received the accolade of "top short-haul leisure airline" from the readers of Condé Nast Traveller UK in 2008. SWISS was ahead of other UK favourites British Airways, KLM and Finnair.
